To Whom It May Concern:

Re: Bob Blazewicz

Bob Blazewicz was in charge of teaching the GD&T course to many of the engineering quality, and production members at RB&W. Through personal experience of going through many training courses, I would say Bob was one who did an excellent job in describing key concepts informatively to ensure all trainees walk away with a clear understanding of GD&T.

As a presenter, being professional throughout and being well-prepared is extremely important. It's a skill that Bob clearly demonstrated throughout his teachings to RB&W members. Bob consistently elaborated on important concepts on GD&T that enhanced the knowledge of all trainees and that's what RB&W wanted to achieve through taking the course.

With years of experience in the material being presented, Bob was easily able to communicate key concepts that are must-knows after completion of the course. Once again, through excellent communication skills and extensive knowledge of GD&T, all of us at RB&W were able to interpret his teachings in a way that we can now apply the GD&T standards in the workplace.

Bob was able to provide all the trainees with a valuable experience in terms of a great instructor and vital knowledge to have in the automotive industry. In conclusion, on behalf of RB&W, I recommend that any individual in the automotive industry or perhaps out of the automotive industry needing knowledge of GD&T should refer to the training course and services provided by Bob Blazewicz.
